

Democratic State Ticket.

For Judge of the Supreme Court:
JAMES B. GANTT,
Of Clinton County.

For State Superintendent of Schools:
L. E. WOLFE,
Of Randolph County.

For Railroad Commissioner:
H. W. HICKMAN,
Of Stoddard County.

Announcement—State Senator.

We are authorized to announce Hon. THOS. D. FERGUSON as a candidate for State Senator of the 24th Senatorial District—subject to the decision of the Democratic Senatorial Convention.

OUR PLATFORM.

Undeniable opposition to the policy of Public Fines for Private Industries by Tariff Taxation—commonly called the Republican Policy of Protection.

Give us free coinage, and abolish the National Banking System. We must have the one and we won't have the other.

Farmer Harmon would have suited us better than Farmer Hickman; but one has to take things as he can get them in this world of disappointment—not as he wants them.

We observe that the Farmers' Alliance of Stoddard county has, by resolution, endorsed the Bloomfield Vindicator as its "organ," and given poor old Charley Stokes, Enterprise-Messenger the go-by. This is the reward Charley gets for having, two or three years ago, become so ardent a "farmer's friend" that the Democratic party was no longer good enough to hold him.

The State Ticket.

The Democrats assembled in State Convention at St. Joseph last Wednesday, and, after a session of three days and two nights, almost continuous, nominated a ticket for the election of the Democratic party of Missouri. The nominees are: James B. Gantt, of Clinton county, for Supreme Judge; L. E. Wolfe, of Randolph county, for State Superintendent of Schools; H. W. Hickman, of Stoddard, for Railroad Commissioner. The defeat of Judge Thomas for the first place is a cause of regret to the REGISTER, as it is to nearly all residents of Southeast Missouri, but Judge Gantt is a man in every way worthy the suffrages of the party, and will be supported with hearty good will by Democrats. Mr. Wolfe is one of the very best selections that could have been made, and he, too, deserves and will receive the united support of the party all over the State. As to Mr. Hickman, it is well known to the readers of this paper that he was not the choice of its editor, but since the party in its councils have declared him a fit person to be its candidate, we bow in submission as we claim is the duty of all good Democrats. The fight now on, between centralization and the liberty of the citizen of the State; between the classes favored by special legislation at the expense of the masses; between right and the might of money—all these things demand that no trifling thing shall cause the rank and file of the party to waver in enthusiastic support of the men declared its standard-bearers. Let us stand to the ticket!

Words From the Enemy.

From Saturday's Globe-Democrat.

Senator Vest obtained the party endorsement without asking for it, but he can not secure re-election on the same easy terms.—Editorial.

It may be considered a well-established fact that the chief test of Bourbon orthodoxy in Missouri is unconditional subservience to Geo. G. Vest.—Editorial.

A G.-D. CHANDLER INTERVIEW.

Mr. Jeff Chandler returned from St. Joseph yesterday. He was seen at his office by a Globe-Democrat reporter and asked about the "snub" reported in several of the newspapers to have been given him at the St. Joe Convention. He said that he was absent from the Convention hall at the time of the uproar in the convention. "I visited St. Joe," said he, "in response to an invitation from the managing committee of the Convention of which Hon. Walter Young was Chairman. I was on the stage during the opening exercises before noon. After dinner I went out to make some calls and was at the residence of Dr. Smith, while the paroxysm mentioned in the papers was felt by the rabble that created the confusion. I had no desire to make a speech before the Convention, though I had a legal right to answer the call to do so from the body of the delegation, such as was made upon Gov. Woodson and others, and responded to by them. I mention this to show that an understanding had been previously entered into by an ignorant and vicious element assembled in the Convention from distant counties, to produce confusion should my name be mentioned. I am informed that the great body of the delegates took little, if any, part in the turbulence spoken of. The noise came from a horde of ruffians. There is an element in this State who make politics a trade. They are truthfully described as professional or political Confederates, as distinguished from military Confederates. The latter subdivisions are gentlemen of courage and possess a spirit of fair play, while the professional Confederate, never having encountered the dangers of the war, bears the same irritating relation to the public since the war as did the fire-eaters who excited the sections against each other before the war, and who sustained from places of exposure while the conflict was going on.

This class have no respect for a man born in the North and who has any affection for the flag of his country. They are willing to stand up for a public place on a great political occasion, when the honor of the State requires that reasonable decorum be observed, and deny to me free speech, notwithstanding I was among the first to advocate and vote for the removal of disabilities, and have supported all their candidates for office for sixteen years. I believe the people of this State will not approve of this kind of brutal politics; at any rate, it might as well be tested now as later. I intend to be heard throughout this State on this issue. I have no prejudice against military Confederates, and they ought to have none against me. I have advocated a public Confederate Home in this State for the crippled Confederate soldiers, and have contributed to it and have cheerfully supported them for office.

McCreary said I have met many friends who say that the action of the mob at St. Joseph was disgraceful in the extreme."

THE SECTIONAL NEWSPAPER.

Col. Shepard's "Mail and Express" denounced from the pulpit.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., spoke this morning to the members of the Twenty-third Street Baptist Church on "The Sectional Newspaper," which he denounced as a national cancer and a danger to Christianity. "It has no mission to perform," he said, "because the causes which separated this country into sections have disappeared. Talk about the Confederate flag! why, I was born in the South and lived there 23 years and I never saw a Confederate flag. I would not know one from the Russian or Turkish flag if I should see one."

Speaking of the recent editorials in Col. Shepard's Mail and Express, the preacher said the article "outlined the facts in order to deceive, and evidently with the deliberate intention of deceiving. Sectional journalism is founded upon falsehood. It appeals to the lowest and vilest elements of human nature. Vituperation belongs to the little-minded. What would Lincoln say, could he speak, or Grant, whose dying message at Mount McGregor was that he was glad to see harmony restored between the sections?"

"Sectional journalism is a disgrace," he continued, "because in order to live it must steal the lives of heaven to serve the devil in. The paper of which I have spoken poses as an exponent of Christianity. I know nothing of that sort of Christianity. The God that presides over that editorial chair is not my God. I don't know him and I don't want to know him. The God that presides over that editorial chair comes nearer to being my conception of the devil. Only the devil, I believe, is more cunning, more judicious in his methods. [Applause.] Twenty-five years have elapsed since the war, and yet here is a man who would raise 600,000 men to go down South—to do what? To tear from the dying memory of their dead, such a man is neither brute nor human. He is a ghoul. The Turk will not fire upon a hospital. The savage will show leniency to the wounded, but here is one who fails to show respect even to the dead—a little tin soldier who gets up in the night with his little tin horn to weary and tantalize the public. [Great applause.] If you want to read trash read Jesse James' life. At the worst such stuff consists only of dime novels. But when venom and hate are wrapped up in a passage of scripture they may do some harm. I do not think that one of the heads of families in my congregation is a subscriber for the paper, and I sincerely hope you will let it alone."—Republican.

A Full Confession.

Sunday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock Sheridan Copass and John Wathen were arrested for the robbery of the mail carrier at Mine La Motte, and several parties searched the house of Copass and found $250 in silver in an old stinking hanging in the garret of the house and $1,655 in currency concealed on the person of his wife. They then made a search of Wathen's house, but were foiled as they could find nothing.

Monday about noon John Wathen told them that the money was in the garret of the kitchen at his mother's house and they found the money, $2,005, where he told them.

These young men plotted this scheme about ten days prior to the time of executing it, and on Friday morning they started to the place, where they laid in wait until the hack made its appearance, when they proceeded to carry out their plans, exactly as given in the Standard last week.

After getting the money they burned the sacks used by them to conceal their faces, and threw the old shot gun, belonging to Wathen, in the river, when they proceeded as far as the old Murray mill, where they hid the money and came to town.

About twelve o'clock Friday night they went to where the money was hid and under a division of the currency, Wathen getting $1,645 and Copass $1,655. About the time they finished the division of the currency they got into a quarrel, and the silver to the top of the hill in Nifong's pasture near the old slaughter house, where they divided the silver, Wathen getting $400 and Copass $300, they thinking there was only $300 in the sack. Wathen took $200 silver dollars and the small sack at $100 as he supposed, (but $200 as proved afterward) and Copass 300 silver dollars. They then parted and each took his share and hid it at home. Copass was spending money too freely Saturday and Sunday and several parties kept a sharp lookout as to what kind of money he was spending and discovered that all of it was silver dollars.

They waived preliminary hearing Monday, and Tuesday they were taken to the Farmington jail where they will remain until circuit court meets on the 4th. I mention this to show that they will appear before Judge Fox and be sentenced.—Fredericktown Standard.

The Safest

AND most powerful alternative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and every body expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number, and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggins, Arkansas.
